

LAUSD Nutrition Network Community Skills & Interests Inventory

The goals of the LAUSD Nutrition Network are to work together to ensure that students make healthy eating choices and engage in regular physical activity. Each participating school determines how they will achieve these goals. Examples of projects include school gardens, classroom cooking classes, parent education, and after-school programs. Family/community festivals, field trips to farms and farmer's markets, and "Chefs in the Classroom" are also ways to get involved. The Nutrition Network is interested in learning about the skills, interests, talents and potential contributions of community members concerned about the health, education and future success of LA's children.
